

EchoRoom

Where voices find a safe space

Table of contents

Brand Story

Page 3

Market Analysis

Page 5

Target Audience

Page 7

Brand Values

Page 9

Visual Identity Guidelines

Page 11

Logo Design/Guidelines

Page 15

EchoRoom

Brand Story

What are we about?

EchoRoom is a peer-support platform designed to give people a safe, anonymous space to share their emotions without judgment. We do not replace therapy, but instead provide quick 15-30 minute text or call sessions where users can vent, reflect, and feel heard. With topic-based matching and private journaling, EchoRoom bridges the gap between expensive clinical therapy and unsafe, unmoderated online spaces, offering a simple, human connection whenever it's needed most.

Vision Statement

To normalize emotional check-ins by making anonymous peer support as common and accessible as sending a text.

Mission Statement

Our mission is to create a safe, stigma-free environment where individuals can connect with empathetic peers, release their emotions, and find comfort in being heard instantly and affordably.

EchoRoom Origin

EchoRoom was inspired by the realization that many people feel emotionally overwhelmed but don't need therapy, they just need someone to listen. Traditional therapy can be expensive or intimidating, while friends and family may feel "too close" for safe and comfortable venting. From this insight, EchoRoom evolved into a space where anyone can connect anonymously for short, meaningful conversations. The idea grew through refining features like topic-based matching, safe moderation, and private reflection, ensuring users always feel lighter, heard, and supported.

EchoRoom

Market Analysis

In the emotional well-being and peer support space, competition comes from direct platforms like 7 Cups, TalkLife, and HearMe, as well as indirect platforms such as Reddit communities and mental health discussion forums. Many of these competitors have established user bases, longer track records, and in some cases, broader service offerings. Others leverage social media reach to create active, ongoing engagement. However, these platforms can often feel impersonal, overwhelming, or too similar to traditional therapy environments creating a barrier for those seeking quick, low-pressure human connection.

EchoRoom differentiates itself by focusing on simple, anonymous 15–30 minute one-on-one conversations guided by user-selected topics, paired with a private journaling option. This stripped-back, judgment-free approach creates a safe, approachable space that meets the needs of people who just want to be heard without committing to formal counseling or a large community environment.

EchoRoom

Target Audience

Who are our target audience

- University & college students who are often stressed by academic workloads, exams, and social pressures.
- Young professionals who are experiencing workplace stress, burnout, or career uncertainty and those who want quick, accessible emotional support without stigma.
- Caregivers & family members who are emotionally drained from responsibilities and need an outlet.
- People prefer talking to a neutral party to avoid burdening loved ones.
- People going through breakups, relocations, or job changes.
- Seek short-term emotional relief during adjustment periods.
- Value emotional safety and anonymity.
- Tech-comfortable and familiar with apps for social connection.
- Open to sharing feelings but prefer non-clinical conversation.
- People who value privacy and judgment-free listening over formal therapy.

EchoRoom

Brand Values

Empathy

Listening without judgment, ensuring users feel understood and supported.

Accessibility

Providing emotional relief that is simple, affordable, and always available.

Anonymity

Protecting privacy so users can share openly without being judged.

Authenticity

Prioritize genuine, human conversations over scripted or clinical interactions.

Safety

Maintaining a respectful, secure environment for all users.

Growth

Encouraging emotional resilience and helping people feel lighter after every session.

EchoRoom

Visual Identity Guidelines

Colour Palette

Inspired by the purple-pink-orange gradient theme.

Primary Colours

Moderate Purple (#9B59B6) - Calm, empathy, and trust.

Deep Pink (#E84393) - Warmth, compassion, and approachability.

Secondary Colours

Light Red (#FF7675) - Energy, human connection, and encouragement.

Soft Orange (#FAD390) - Comfort and balance.

Accent Colours

Electric Coral (#FF7F50) - Friendly vibrancy for highlights and CTAs.

Sunny Yellow (#FFFF00) - Optimism and positivity.

Typography

Primary Font (Headers/Logo): Poppins - modern, geometric, approachable.

ABCDEFGHIJKLMNOPQRSTUVWXYZ 1234567890

Secondary Font (Body Text): Open Sans - clean, highly readable across platforms.

ABCDEFGHIJKLMNOPQRSTUVWXYZ 1234567890

Accent Font (Quotes/Highlights): Comic Sans - playful, handwritten touch for personality.

ABCDEFGHIJKLMNOPQRSTUVWXYZ 1234567890

Example

Header (Poppins Bold): Find Your Space to Be Heard

Subheader (Poppins Semi-Bold): Anonymous, supportive conversations-anytime.

Body Text (Open Sans Regular): EchoRoom connects you with someone who will listen for 15–30 minutes.
Safe, private, and pressure-free.

Accent Quote (Comic Sans Regular): "It felt like a weight was lifted."

Imagery

These kinds of images will be placed on the site to bring a sense of calm and community. Showing the user the kind of vibe they are getting using EchoRoom.

